Statement by the President Regarding the Reimposition of Nuclear-Related Sanctions on Iran

The White House
November 2, 2018

On Monday, November 5, the termination of United States participation in the Iran nuclear deal will be complete. The last set of sanctions lifted under the terrible nuclear deal will come back into force, including powerful sanctions on Iran's energy, shipping, and shipbuilding sectors, and sanctions targeting transactions with the Central Bank of Iran and sanctioned Iranian banks.

Our objective is to force the regime into a clear choice: either abandon its destructive behavior or continue down the path toward economic disaster.

Iran cannot be trusted to have vital constraints on its nuclear program lifted. The United States is committed to ensuring that Iran never comes close to possessing a nuclear weapon.

Starting today, all nuclear cooperation with Iran, except for the limited activities for which waivers are being granted, will be sanctionable.

“We hope a new agreement with Iran is possible, but until Iran makes changes in the 12 ways that I listed in May, we will be relentless in exerting pressure on the regime. As a reflection of that resolve, today we’re reimposing all sanctions that were previously lifted under the nuclear deal. This includes sanctions on energy, banking, shipping, and shipbuilding industries.” Secretary Pompeo words

The tough sanctions the United States is reimposing on Iran’s energy and financial sectors on November 5 are aimed at its corrupt regime, not the Iranian people. They will not affect shipments of food, medicine and other humanitarian goods.

The purpose of these sanctions is to greatly reduce the Iranian regime’s capacity to fund its broad range of violent activities, its destabilizing activities around the Middle East and we are placing unprecedented financial pressure on the regime so that it will agree to a solution that will prevent Iran from ever acquiring nuclear weapon and end Iran’s broad range of malign activities.
